TREND GUIDE

Welcome to Currey & Company's Look Book, with an overview of some of the top directions in the marketplace, as well as a deeper dive into all of our product categories. With nearly 600 introductions in 2023 alone, our lineup of lighting, furniture, outdoor and accessories has never been stronger. We have expanded partnerships with Marjorie Skouras and Hiroshi Koshitaka, among others, and added a new collaboration with Suzanne Duin. Our in-house-designed products include a renewed emphasis on and refresh of our furniture collection, numerous line extensions on popular products, and all sorts of innovative new and fresh designs across categories.

The Currey & Company product line is always changing and evolving, but what doesn't change is our commitment to our customers, to continuous investment in our business, and to maintaining our position as a family-owned company. Now in our 35th year, we are stronger than ever.

We hope to see you in person soon: our Atlanta and Dallas showrooms are open daily, and High Point and Las Vegas during market times. Or visit us anytime, anywhere at www.curreyandcompany.com.

MARJORIE SKOURAS

Marjorie Skouras is a prominent interior designer who describes her style as “fairly traditional, but almost always with a twist, and playfulness is a constant element.” Her first collection for Currey & Company debuted in 2010, and our collaboration with her continues to yield daring, beautiful, elegant designs. Skouras’s latest collection for Currey & Company is a celebration of the influences of her beloved Yucatan home. Agave plants, palm fronds, sand dollars and even a pair of whimsical quail adorn this special collection that includes furniture, lighting and accents.

HIROSHI KOSHITAKA

Drawing inspiration from Japanese architecture and culture, Hiroshi Koshitaka has added several new designs in recent seasons, including new pieces for 2023. Koshitaka is a self-taught designer with years of experience in architectural installations and product design. With skillful precision, he guides the entire process from concept to the finished product while working alongside craftsmen to ensure the best product possible. Space-inspired forms pepper Hiroshi Koshitaka's lighting designs — orbs are nods to planets and spirals represent the swirling universes that spin in far-away realms.
